One Thousand Lies is a action-adventure game that's riddled with lies. We love lies, and that's why we wanted to create a soundtrack that was full of them. Do you know of any in the game? We certainly do. One Thousand Lies is a satirical game about how people are just plain nuts. Eliot Corley Indie Game & Music Services I don't have to explain to you for another hour, so either you don't have what you claim to have, or you're a liar, which makes it appear you want to look like a clown. Your choice. So again, where's the research? Did you check anywhere else? Quote: I'm currently working on something called Extra Life 2012. This is a game where people play video games all the time and give up a donation to the charity of their choice. I'm part of the group doing it this year, so I'm going to give over one million dollars to the Children's Miracle Network. This is where you come in.

Every time you donate $1 to the pool, $1 will be given to the charity. For every $5,000 you raise or more you'll get a badge. You can work your way up the organization by raising more money, completing more things, and seeing more badges. That is, assuming you had already donated $20 by then. The more you raise and get badges, the higher your profile on the leaderboard. Once the leaderboard is completed, I'll post how many people in the US raised the most money for the charity. When I post the leaderboard, you'll know how much people raised for a charity and you can go in and see how far you came and what your status is. Just remember, all the money raised is donated to charity, so it doesn't cost anything. If you run into any problems, you can email me at or DM me on Facebook. That said, here's a list of the games I play. I try to post a game a day and try to support it at the same time. Let's start at the bottom: Scrapland: Scrap (iPhone game) - A wonderfully simple, physics-based puzzle game. Mark of the Ninja (iPhone game) - A side-scrolling ninja-themed game.

Geometry Wars 3: Dimensions (Wii game) - If you liked the previous
