Neal N Nikki Movie Download.The city government of Cuzco, Peru continues to blame U.S. officials for the May 7 earthquake that struck. The U.S. Geological Survey, in reporting to the media that the epicenter of the quake was off the coast of Peru, was targeted for blame. National Public Radio's Here & Now, hosts Robin Young and Jeremy Hobson rebut the city's claims, explaining that the U.S. military dispatched the United States Geological Survey experts to the area. "And that's because we have military personnel who are trained to do exactly this," says Young. Hobson adds, "I mean, I have no idea why the government hasn't just hired civilian scientists, but it clearly has engaged in a very long series of public relations problems of stating that the earthquake was a U.S. instrument's fault, which it most definitely was not." Following the May quake, Cuzco Mayor Gonzalo Quezón issued a statement following a visit to the United States, saying, "This earthquake, which had a magnitude of 7.8 on the Richter Scale, was generated in the USA, specifically in Nevada, Alaska and Puerto Rico, the epicenters of the disaster. The information that the Mayor obtained and which corroborates the insinuation of some of the U.S. State Department officials, is the fact that when the USGS team went to Peru to check the faults, they were attacked by a group of indigenous Peruvians armed with stones, clubs, and firebombs." Meanwhile, Peru's state-run news agency, APF, reported that the U.S. government has no earthquake-related programs in the region. "No geophysical observations are taken in the area, nor does the U.S. Geological Survey have programs in Peru," reads a statement released by the newspaper. e79caf774b
